++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Warm sunny spells, but cloud building later. Light winds.

Today:
A bright morning, with hazy sunny spells. Cloud will thicken from the west through the day, but likely staying dry for all with further sunny spells likely throughout. Feeling warm with light winds. Maximum temperature 25 deg C (77 deg F).

Tonight:
Rather cloudy across northwestern areas overnight, with limited clearer spells. More frequent clearer spells in the south and east, with isolated mist patches possible in prone rural spots by dawn. Minimum temperature 13 deg C (55 deg F).

Thursday:
Rather cloudy morning, especially in the west, but eastern parts generally brighter. A dry day follows, with light winds and warm sunny spells, although some fair weather cloud also developing. Maximum temperature 25 deg C (77 deg F).

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Sunny spells and breezy Friday, but cloudier overnight into Saturday, with rain at times. Probably dry but rather cloudy Saturday. Turning wetter, and perhaps windy Sunday, with rain spreading northeast.
